

"DOCILE HORSE" IS EQUINE FEND.

Hoboken Man Got a Written Guarantee with Animal, but It Runs Off, Injuring Children and Others.

PLUNGED INTO BABY BUGGY.

Infant Thrown Out, Causing Scalp Wounds, and Doctor Says It Cannot Live—Mother and Policeman Also Knocked Down.

Frank Autret, of No. 106 Central avenue, West Hoboken, yesterday bought a horse in New York and received a written guarantee of its gentleness.

To-day the animal took fright at a passing trolley on Monastery street, knocked down two children at play on the sidewalk, breaking the arm and leg of one; overturned a baby carriage, fatally injuring the infant, and knocking down its mother before it was finally stopped.

The owner of the animal is a fruit dealer. He wanted a horse for delivery work and came to New York to get a thoroughly broken animal. To make him doubly sure that he was getting what he wanted, the seller wrote out a long statement, telling of the docile qualities of the horse. Autret felt that he could trust the animal with a woman.

This morning his son John, twenty-one years old, was driving the horse in Monastery street when the animal became frightened at a passing car. In an instant it was beyond the control of the driver, who tugged manfully at the reins until he was thrown from the seat by the swinging and bounding of the buggy. He was only slightly injured.

Leaving the street the horse dashed along the sidewalk. At Stevens street two children, John and Annie Walker, were at play, and before they could escape the horse was upon them. The little girl was knocked down and her leg and arm were both broken. John was unconscious when he was picked up, but his injuries proved to be less serious than his sister's. There were several scalp wounds but the lad was soon out of danger.

At a house near Washington street Mrs. Henry Reinecke was calling on a relative and left her eighteen-month-old baby in the baby carriage on the sidewalk. The horse ran fairly into the carriage before the mother, who had seen the danger and rushed to her child, could snatch it to a place of safety. The infant was thrown out, and so long scalp wounds made the little thing unconscious. The mother, too, was knocked down, but she was not seriously injured.

Only a few rods further up the street Policeman Gaillard grabbed at the bridle, but he was tossed aside. Others kept up the attempt to stop the animal until it was finally exhausted after running for more than a mile.

Dr. Meyer was called to examine the injured baby and expressed the fear that it would live only a short time. The other victims are all resting comfortably. No blame is attached to the driver by those who saw the animal take fright.

SHE SAW BURGLAR WORK.

Rich Silverware Stolen from a City Employee's Home.

Henry Edwards, of the Street-Cleaning Department, No. 474 Pacific avenue, Brooklyn, told the police to-day that a burglar had stolen $90 worth of silverware from his home while the family was at dinner.

The burglar entered by the skylight and after gathering up the silverware ransacked the room. A daughter, attending to the house, was in the kitchen when she saw the burglar. She screamed, but the man escaped as she came, carrying his plunder with him.

MILLIONAIRES ARE POLICEMEN

Scarsdale's Wealthy Residents "Sworn In" as Constables to Protect Homes from Burglars Who Infest Neighborhood

OFFER REWARD OF $1,000.

Unprotected by Paid Constabulary, the Prosperous People of the Place Adopt the Abrupt Suggestion to "Be Your Own Police Force."

Millionaire constables is the order of the day in Westchester County these days, when the festive burglar is rampant and the police inefficient. Sheriff Miller has asked the aid of many of the millionaire residents of Scarsdale by swearing them in as auxiliary thief-taking force, and now Scarsdale and the territory immediately in the vicinity of the aristocratic village is under the protection of formidable funds and stalwart and enthusiastic constables of financial and social standing.

A burglar scare in the village and the nearby country caused the formation of the millionaire constables' league, coupled with the fact that the village is wholly without police protection except that which the law abiding citizens themselves are willing to give gratuitously.

Since the recent shooting of the station agent at Scarsdale and the hold-up of several citizens of the place the residents, rich and poor, have become alarmed over the frequent visitations of the midnight marauders. When Sheriff Miller was appealed to he said:

"I have no funds with which to furnish you with police or deputies."

Suggestion Was Adopted.

When the town organization was asked to furnish police the answer came back: "We have no money. You fellows will have to be your own police-men."

The suggestion, abrupt as it was, made the situation clear. Sheriff Miller offered to help.

"Get your men together," he said, "and I will swear them in as constables."

The "swearing-in" process meant that those who "swore" were empowered to make arrests on sight and to carry each a big tin badge, a gun and a club. Fifty of the wealthiest residents of the town held up their hands when volunteers were called for at the meeting in the Town Hall brought together for the purpose.

Ten of the most determined-looking as well as the wealthiest of the lot were selected for village constable honors.

They passed muster favorably and were duly sworn in by Sheriff Miller. These are the names of the new constables: C. J. Gunning, A. M. Crane, son of Col. Crane, Dr. J. H. Gunning, Lewis Fish, John D. H. McKane, T. F. Burges, S. L. Angel, Charles C. Fleming, R. J. Sprague, Horace Taylor, M. B. Thayer and J. W. Thayer.

These men represent the bon ton of Westchester County society. They comprise a list of the most prominent and influential of whom have places of business in Manhattan.

Offer Themselves a Reward.

Immediately after the formation of the millionaire constable brigade $1,000 was subscribed as a reward for the arrest of the crooks who broke into and robbed the Scarsdale station. The offer of money at a reward for the arrest of thieves was agreed upon by the wealthy constables.

They said that he had more faith in money as a trap for thieves than all of a State's police force. No arrests were made. Several of the crooks who broke into and robbed the Scarsdale station. The offer of money at a reward for the arrest of thieves was agreed upon by the wealthy constables.

RAID PRISONERS ALL SET FREE.

Magistrate Zeller Scores Police Captain Smith for Making Descent Without Sufficient Evidence.

24 MEN WERE CAPTURED.

Ball Was Refused at the Police Station and Judge Had to Get Up at Midnight to Release Prisoners on Bond.

Magistrate Zeller was very wroth with Detectives Carter, Fay, Howard and Cassidy, of the East One Hundred and Fourth Street Police Station, when they arraigned in Harlem Court this morning twenty-four prisoners on rambling charges and against whom, the Magistrate declared, they had not a title of evidence.

He was also angry with Captain Michael Smith, of the One Hundred and Fourth Street Station, for refusing to accept bail for the prisoners last night and for unnecessarily causing him (Magistrate Zeller) to take a trip to the station-house at midnight to accept bail for the men arrested.

"You policemen have not a bit of evidence against these men, and should not have arrested them," he said. Then turning to Cassidy, he said: "And I wish you would tell Captain Smith for me that he had better be careful about refusing bail. I don't know but what these people have a good cause for action against him."

The men arrested were Isidor Cohen, of No. 107 Lexington avenue, who has a pool parlor at No. 219 Second avenue, and Joseph Zeppert, who has a similar place at No. 40 East One Hundred and Fifteenth street. At the first place the proprietor and ten prisoners were arrested for gambling, and at the latter place the proprietor and twelve prisoners. All the detectives had as evidence some packs of cards and a small sum of money.

ZEISS' PAINT-BRUSH TURNED FIRE ALARM

Painter Accidentally Touched Key and Four Engines and a Patrol Wagon Responded.

William Zeiss is painting the fire-alarm boxes. While painting the one at Church and Duane streets to-day he unintentionally turned in an alarm.

A patrol wagon was the first to respond, and Zeiss and his brush began his explanation when the first engine came up. He had to start his story again, but was interrupted by the arrival of engine number two and a hook and ladder wagon. Two more engines and another ladder wagon came in quick succession, and with them the usual crowd of messenger boys, policemen, pedestrians and thirty-two reporters.

Zeiss told his story until he was tired, and then the engines were sent home. The man is mourning the loss of a bucket of red paint that fell in the way of one of the fire wagons.

DIVORCE CASE MUST BE RE-TRIED.

Sheriff Will Have to Pay Court Expenses Owing to Error of Deputy in Serving Papers.

(Special to The Evening World.)

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 14.—Owing to a mistake on the part of Under Sheriff Tompkins of Sheriff Virtue's office, the decree of divorce in the suit of Jacob Shoemaker against his wife Frances will not issue and the entire case will have to be gone over again.

The decree was recommended by Special Master in Chancery French of Camden, N. J., where the action was begun. The defendant, Mrs. Shoemaker, is a resident of Newark.

The entire expense of the second suit will have to be borne by Sheriff Virtue. The error occurred in the serving of the papers on the defendant. Under Sheriff Tompkins served only a citation, whereas a certified copy of the bill should have been presented also. The proper return of the serving of the papers was made, the case proceeded with, the decree was recommended and about to be signed.

Counsel for the defendant appeared before Vice-Chancellor Emery today and moved to have the finding of the special master set aside. The request was granted.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period—how to avoid pain and suffering and remove the cause by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To Young Women:—I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment, and was cured a month later. I am like another person since. I am in perfect health, my eyes are brighter, I have added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel light and happy."

—MISS AGNES MILLER, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The monthly sickness reflects the condition of a woman's health. Anything unusual at that time should have prompt and proper attention. Fifty thousand letters from women prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulates menstruation and makes those periods painless.
